THE FASH PACKER

Jennifer Jambon, principal perfumier for Molton Brown, gives her tips on travelling

Won't step on a plane without? "Yes Saint Laurent's Touche Eclat and Molton Brown's Skinboost 24Hr Moisture Mist [below left, £20.50; 0808 178 1188] – I use both to stop my skin from looking tired."

Travel style? "Jeans with a T-shirt from Desigual or Comptoir des Cotonniers."

Essential extras? "Rogart or Lijiang [below] Fine Fragrance [from £55 each, Molton Brown]."

Best bar? "Liguria in Santiago, Chile, for its amazing Pisco Sour cocktails."

Best beach? "Rossbeigh beach in Kerry, Ireland – it's like nowhere else in the world."

Best bed? "Mine – you never sleep better than in your own bed."

Working holiday? "I visit Grasse in the south of France – known as the perfume capital of the world – all the time."

Dream escape? "Torres del Paine Natural Park in Patagonia, Chile. Hiking for eight hours before discovering the Grey Glacier was so memorable."

Luxe travel moment? "The food [below, lobster and orange] at La Bastide Saint-Antoine in Grasse – the restaurant is arguably more famous than the hotel."

HOT SPOT

Ras Kutani, Tasmania

Barefoot luxury, tranquillity, long stretches of unspoilt deserted beach overlooking the Indian Ocean – you'll find all this and more at Ras Kutani, a little gem on the undiscovered eastern coast of Tasmania. The secluded 15-room boutique hotel, next to a tropical forest, is the perfect hideaway (seven nights from £2,070 per person, full board, based on two sharing, including flights and transfers; expertafrica.com; 020 8232 9777). Choose from one of the nine open-fronted cottages, or go for all-out splendour, at one of the six luxury suites (two are for families), perched on the hillside, complete with a plunge pool.

Devon sent

For a perfect late-summer staycation break, why not head to one of our fave haunts, the South Sands hotel in Salcombe, Devon (rooms from £135 per night; southsands.com; 01548 859 000)? Situated on a lovely quiet beach, this is pure seaside chic: New England nautical decor, fab views and seafood to die for.

Haute hotel

Cutting-edge fashion house Maison Martin Margiela is the genius behind Paris's very cool revamped Hotel La Maison Champs-Élysées (rooms from £400 per night; lamaisonchampselysees.com; 0033 1 40 74 64 65) in Paris. A stone's throw from avenue Montaigne and the Grand Palais, it's the fashionista's top destination in town.

Pssst! opening soon...

Taj Hotels's latest venture in Marrakech opens this autumn (tajhotels.com). With promises of unsurpassed luxury, panoramic views of the Atlas mountains and a whopping 14-treatment room Jiva Grande Spa, we can't wait. ■
